Colder weather is upon us and we are in the home stretch of making our YARN HATS to give away to the needy and those suffering from cancer, abuse, poverty and more. A "Graceful Giving" project in its 9th year has grown and blessed so many including the precious hands that have made them.

We are aiming to give away @ 350 plus hats this winter and are so grateful to the many folks who have helped in this endeavor. If you'd like to be a part of this tradition of love for those needing a touch of kindness as they face life's challenges, contact the Life Enrichment Team.

Money for yarn donations are welcomed all year long too.

We celebrate many important days and causes in the month of November: Veteran's Day, World Kindness Day, America Recycles Day, and, of course, Thanksgiving. But, did you know that November is also Native American Heritage Month? Since 1990, November has been set aside to honor the achievements of the native tribes of America and to celebrate the rich and diverse cultures, traditions, and histories of them. November was chosen as it is the end of the traditional harvest season and a time of thanksgiving and celebration for Native Americans. It is also vitally important to raise awareness and learn about the challenges native people have faced in the past, as well as present day, due to the long-term impact of colonialism. To honor Native American Heritage Month, learn about the local history of your area and the traditions of the native tribes and indigenous people who lived there pre-colonization. Celebrate Native American artwork and artisans by visiting a local gallery or museum. Read a book by an indigenous author to celebrate the voices of Native Americans and their stories.
